Mr. Labouchere moved the adoption of his substitute for the committee's report, declaring that sums given the royal family are already amply sufficient, and that if further supplies are needed, they ought to be provided through the retrenchment in expenses of the royal household, and not by fresh demands upon tax payers. A reduction of the Queen's household would produce a sum necessary to provide for junior royalties. If the useless offices of Lord Chamberlain, Lord Steward, Master of the Horse, Master of the Buck-hounds, eight lords-in-waiting, eight grooms-in-waiting, four equerries, and a number of others, were abolished, an ample sum would be left for the purpose mentioned. A CHANCE FOR ALBERTA HORSES.

Who is going to be the first Alberta horse breeder to send a string of horses to Eastern Canada and England to demonstrate to the world that Alberta is the country for raising race horses? Look what Montana has gained by the record acquired by Spokane! The Australians are entering in earnest for the blue ribbon of the English turf. We read in an Australian exchange:—"The four colts from the well-known stable of the Hon. James White, which have been entered for the Epsom Derby next year, were shipped from Melbourne for the Old Country on June 21st, on board the Orient Line steamer Oriana."

CANADA'S LIQUOR LAWS.

Lord Wemyss has affixed a day for his long-standing notice in the House of Lords, which runs thus:—"To ask Her Majesty's Government, if they will take steps to obtain and lay before Parliament reliable information regarding the present working of the 'Liquor Laws' in Canada and the United States." It is to be hoped in the best interests of true temperance and British freedom that the answer as to the result of the present iniquitous liquor laws of the Northwest will be left to a Northwest man who has had practical experience of that shocking mistake of temperance workers, the attempted enforcement of an arbitrary prohibitory law against the oft-expressed wishes of a long suffering community. Those who have the real interests of genuine temperance at heart should see to it that there shall be no chance of the same mistake being made in any section of the British Isles as has unfortunately for us and for the cause of temperance, been made in the Northwest.

CALGARY'S EXAMPLE.

At the annual meeting of the Synod of the Diocese of Montreal held a couple of weeks ago, there was a lengthy discussion over the qualifications of a churchwarden. After the discussion had gone on for some time, the Chancellor of the Synod, Dr. Strachan Bethune, Q. C., rose and read from the canons of the diocese of Calgary, published in the proceedings of last synod, the clause regarding the qualifications of churchwardens in our diocese. The learned Chancellor, who is one of the highest legal authorities in Canada, very highly commended the clearness of the canons of Calgary diocese. He remarked that not only were these canons of the diocese of Calgary interesting as being the rules laid down for the guidance of the youngest diocese in Canada; but they are valuable to all Canadian Churchmen as showing the most modern views of earnest, thoughtful churchworkers on matters affecting the guidance of church affairs. Canadian churchmen had good reason to feel proud of these canons as an evidence of the growth and vigor of the church in Canada. Montreal diocese could not do better than follow the example of its youngest sister in the matter under discussion. Bishop Bond, Dean Carmichael and other members of the synod re-echoed the sentiments of the Chancellor and the long discussion ended by the unanimous adoption of the clause in the Calgary canons regulating the matter under discussion.

The members of the synod of Calgary have good reason to be proud for having so soon brought our infant diocese to be considered as a model.

NOT ALL ANNEXATIONISTS.

There is an old saying in Ontario that if all Reformers are not Annexationists, "All Annexationists are Reformers." The first part is not true and the second part should be taken with a little rock salt. The "Dundas True Banner," one of the staunchest and oldest reform papers in the province, has just published Butler's great speech on annexation at

Colby, Maine, remarks: "Thank goodness the number of Annexationists in papers in Ontario, in referring to Gen. Canada are small and the number in the United States are as hard to find as the proverbial needle in a haystack; but that these few may read Butler's speech with profit."

We agree with the "Banner" on the annexation question. It will however do us in Canada no harm to have such men as General Butler and Eli Perkins, who are both recognized authorities in the United States, deliver themselves of such utterances as they have lately been doing. It will waken up the masses in the States as to the facts about Canada, very little about which was known in the union to the south of us by about eight tenths of the people there. It will have the effect of commanding more respect for Canada in the United States than has been heretofore accorded to us as our due; and if the public affairs of Canada are managed as they should be, it will by and by be a question not of whether Canada shall be admitted into the union to the south of us, but whether the union to the south shall be admitted into the Canadian federation. The situation is changing rapidly. What could Eli Perkins have said from his own knowledge of this country a year ago? Now he sums up the case by saying that "the country between Winnipeg and the mountains will astonish America and feed the world."

Every one acquainted with the history of the United States and the sayings of her public men, know that only a few years ago Gen. Butler was totally uninformed about Canada and his utterances were the very reverse of what they now are in reference to us. Canada, like every other country, needs to be known to be understood. Viewing things as they now are, one is led to ask, how has this change been brought about? We hold that is largely due to the part that Sir John's government have played in securing the building of the Canadian Pacific Railway and the fostering of the great Canadian steamship lines, and the part the Grand Trunk Railway has been playing at Chicago and other western cities of the States. With the greatest railway in the world built in Canada by Canadians, several of the finest ocean steamship lines in the world, owned in Canada, the third banking institution of the world owned and managed in Canada and being the third maritime power on earth, together with what General Butler tells about our vast fertile territory, coal and other minerals, etc., etc., the Americans are beginning to realize that though young as a nation we are not to be sneezed at.

PARLIAMENTARY REPRESENTATION.

The Macleod Gazette is quite right in saying that the originator of the National Policy, who writes for the Calgary Herald should have been in the House of Commons long ago. Many others have thought so too, as the writer has been asked by his party several times to run in a good constituency in the East, but the writer did not aspire to the position, and felt content with doing what good he could for the country in a quiet, unostentatious way. There seldom being any lack of men in the East willing to sacrifice themselves for their country. As to writing up the N. P., the files of one of the great newspapers of Canada still exist, at least we think so, though the paper was burnt out and the writer is unable to fix the date of the fire from memory, however, some of the papers are now in Calgary. We say that we had no ambition to enter parliament at that time, Ontario, as a rule did not need to go a begging for representatives. It is different out here in Alberta. The great proportion of our able men are old country people, who know but little of Canada. The few competent Canadians there are, are so absorbed in their own private business, that they cannot afford to make the necessary sacrifice of time it would entail to get there, and stay with the interests of the country. So far as the sent representation of part of the Canadian West at Ottawa is concerned, it is simply a farce. It must give the people of the East a poor idea of the class of people who inhabit this country, to have mere Indian traders sit in parliament for this vast country, which from natural resources will make it, if properly handled, the wealthiest province of Canada, with which but few States of the Union will bear any comparison. We say it is a farce to be represented or rather misrepresented at Ottawa by uneducated men, by men who know nothing of Canada's political, commercial, financial and religious history. Men possessing such qualifications as these and also possessing a good knowledge of the requirements of a new country, acquired by living for a time in and travelling through the Western States, watching the rise and progress and methods such States as Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota and many of the newer territories as well as the development of our own fair land of the west are the men we want. We have again to say in reference to the representation of this Alberta of ours. Just as we said when we suggested, and were the first to speak out through the press in favor of the Hon. E. Dewdney as Minister of the Interior. This country wants the best talent coupled with experience and level headed suggestive sense to mould its destinies, that can possibly be obtained, either in Calgary or any other part of Alberta. We want something more than a gentleman to represent the only interests of a trading company, who have already got rich out of government contracts. Nothing but statesmanship will insure the development of Alberta at a rate at all commensurate with its possibilities. If we don't send men of mental calibre to look after our interests at Ottawa, can we expect the government to plan out our future? Our destiny is in our hands and we are responsible if we do not work it out to a glorious consummation.

THE GLORIOUS TWELFTH.

The Northwest review, the representative journal of the Roman Catholic religion in Manitoba and the champion of the separate school system and the deal language, has a long editorial on the 12th of July celebration. The following is a part of the Review's article:—

"Bringing this question home to ourselves we must say plainly that we fail to see what good the celebration of the day is going to confer on Manitoba. We desire to see peace and good will among all classes of our people, and we desire to establish a reputation for our young and promising country that will induce people of other lands to come and cast their lot among us. If any part of Canada is destined to suffer from 'evil report,' Manitoba is that part, for the simple reason that we want settlers while the older provinces do not and settlers do not care to become at this late date participants in the quarrel between King James and his son-in-law William. We have a country as large and as rich in natural resources as the United States. Our population is five millions, theirs sixty millions. Why this difference? There may have been many contributory causes, but their is one cause in particular that we should not lose sight of. Every man in Europe knows that as soon as he becomes a citizen of the United States he merges into the common mass and becomes one of the people. His race and religion are out of the question. And yet he can be an esteemed American citizen and keep a warm spot in his heart for the land that gave him birth. For a man to be a good husband it is not necessary there that he should despise the mother that bore him. What is our position? There is no use in screening the fact, we have by far too much bickering and contention among us in Canada our bickerings and contentions are as well known to Europeans as to ourselves. If then we wish our country to become populous and prosperous, we must impress upon the mind of the outside world that we are a happy and a contented people, living in peace and harmony and ready to welcome the industrious stranger wherever he may hail from, and whatever religion he may profess."

Just so, out of your own mouth will we judge you there at 12th of July celebrations in the United States. Just the same as in Canada. What, then, is the difference? It is simply this: they have but one language and one non-sectarian school system in the United States; and until the Dominion of Canada has a national school system and but one language from the Atlantic to the Pacific, we may expect nothing else but a continuation of these bickerings and contentions. We have as much use for the two language and the separate schools in this country as a man has for four legs. They are a nuisance, in the way and superfluous.

SHE KNOWS IT ALL.

Marie Stuart's Solution of a Vexed Question.

Under the euphonious pseudonym of "Marie Stuart," a lady—speaking of life at Camp Dufferin—writes to a newspaper in the effect East in the following poetic but somewhat misguided strain:

The lake is semi-circular in shape, and all around it rise tier upon tier of differently shaded trees from the edge of the lake to the horizon, and on moonlight nights it is not difficult to let the imagination have full swing and see theoretically the head of a redskin peeping through this close undergrowth, yelling his hideous war-whoop in defiance of his enemy in ambush on the other side. Reality assures us of the fact conclusively that the poor Indian is no more. He is a happy being, his enemy hangs at his belt, and the fact of the extermination of his race, which seems to us to be the only practical solution of this vexed Indian question, is made a happy dream to him, and that he is able to indulge in his amiable little peculiarities as to sketchy, unpleasantly affixed, warpaint and scalp. But alas for the noble red man of Fenimore Cooper's imaginative creation.

We see him only in our dreams.

Marie, dear girl, we have a horrible suspicion that you were well when you wrote that. "Reality assures of the fact conclusively that the poor Indian is no more," is good, but it reminds us painfully of the Dutchman's remark that "the more a man lives the longer he finds it by jimmies Christmas right away and already, ain't it?" This phase of the matter probably never struck you behind those humorous bangs, Marie. The poor Indian is not no more. He is very much more out here than we have any particular use for.

Yes, Lo, the poor Indian, is pretty frequent in the glorious west, and if he followed the trail from here to your camp and stuck his unkempt head through the undergrowth about the time you were breathing those blood-thirsty ideas about the extermination of his race, he would have converted your camp into a slaughter-house and your peaceful semi-circular lake into a sea of gore. He's a gore when he gets started, and if he was feeling pretty well about that time, "reality would assure you" that he was always exceedingly willing to resume business at the old stand. He would leave nothing of your indolent outfit but the postlock and the place where you had been.

It would do you good to come out here, Marie, and see for yourself how very much more the poor Indian is than you think from where you are. Several of him visit us here in Calgary every day. He is a very numerous visitor to the wigwag and trading-places of the white man, as is also his sundry squaw and his variegated family of papoose and dogs. There is a hyphen in their apparel that would knock you silly. The old man rides his broncho clothed in a gaudy blanket and a stone-bruise; while his divers other halves are arrayed in well-worn suspenders and plug hats.

If you could but see the squaw women out here. As they travel the streets in the clothes they love best.

They pass their white sisters with a snort and a sneer. When they wear a plug hat in the glorious west.

Your off-hand solution of the vexed Indian problem is also good, and worthy of the dear little head from which it emanates. This is the missing link in the policy of the Department of Indian Affairs, and it will only be necessary for them to read your refreshing suggestion to prompt the head thereof to turn on his exterminator. Just precisely what you mean when you speak of a sketchy attire has not dawned on us up to the hour of going to press, but no doubt you have an idea yourself what you are trying to get at. Under these circumstances there is no kick coming to us.

You have a great brain, Marie Stuart, and your future is before you. In the long run you will find it better to have your future that way. But what you don't know of Mr. Lo and his wild and woolly compatriots, would make several adult volumes, including prefaces and footnotes. Your language is frantic and mellifluous, and the reference to seeing the noble red man in your dreams is touching. We mean, of course, the quotation, not the Indian.

But come closer, Marie dear, so we can whisper a little cheap but wholesome advice into your off pearly ear: Don't you think this old world would worry along just as well, if you would swear off this poetic strain of writing with which you have recently been attacked. Your ambition to be a rhythmic and soul-stirring architect of imaginative articles is laudable, but you must consider that there are little household duties which require some one to attend to. If you could corral your great genius and confine it to the construction of something to eat, we will give you a written guarantee that in the end you will shine. Try it, dear girl. Put your mellifluous pen out to grass and take a turn at dallying with pie-crust and dough and things. Poetry is not bread and butter, Marie, but pie is a poem.

Locating Parties Start Out To-day. Considerable interest has been created in town by the arrival of two surveying parties for locating the route of the Regina and Long Lake Railway.

Yesterday afternoon's freight brought a car containing the engineers' outfits, wagons, tents, six mules and two horses. There arrived by this morning's express, Contractor Holt, two engineers and a number of men, making a party of about twenty in all. These will be divided into two surveying parties, and will leave for Long Lake this afternoon.

These parties will be out two or three weeks before construction will actually commence. It has not even been definitely decided yet on which side of the lake the road will be built.—Regina Journal

The Account of a Mill Which Occurred Wednesday Eve.

The following detailed account of a desperate scrap which took place on Wednesday evening, has been handed the HERALD for publication:—

FLYNN VS. DOOLITTLE

Round 1:—Flynn making one of his famous rushes, and by a simple and also beautiful horizontal movement of the muscles of his right arm, brought his fatal termination in contact, violently, with Doolittle's proboscis, bringing his head and shoulders in contact with Mother Earth, in a most violent manner.

Round 2:—Doolittle, all game as he is well known to be, came up smiling, when, swift and keen, as when the forked lightning strikes the blighted oak, Flynn's left landed on Doolittle's snout, and counter-acting with his right, landed with telling effect on his left optic, causing him again to bite the dust.—Applause from the spectators.

Round 3:—Doolittle again came up smiling but groggy, when it became apparent to all present, that the fight was practically ended. The two champions battled only for a moment, when Flynn the plucky little fighter, landed one on Doolittle's head, which caused the fight. After this Doolittle could do little or nothing.

Later.—It is rumored that the vanquished gladiator's friends are willing to put up considerable money on a future fight, when it is presumed he will be in better condition.

Latest.—Doolittle was with difficulty resuscitated after being carried to the Elite Saloon, and well drenched with ice water.

JOHN COLLINS.

Jack The Ripper.

Curiously enough an accurate description of Jack the Ripper has never been published. He was seen by two persons who knew him as the Ripper, and information was given by these to the police. The Ripper's first botched job was accomplished November 21, at No. 19 George street, Whitechapel. There he attempted to murder Dark Sarah, but only succeeded in cutting her throat, as the woman was unusually strong. Dark Sarah met him in a public-house and remembered him well. The other person who saw the Ripper is Frank Ruffell, driver of a grocer's wagon. Ruffell tells this story: "The morning when the trouble took place at 8 George street, I was out with a van delivering coals to lodging houses. I was standing on the sidewalk in front of the house next to 19. I was about ten feet from the door when a man came out and walked rapidly towards me. He was about 30 years old. He did not look like a working man, he did not look like a gentleman. He had on a black diagonal suit. His hat was a black round felt and he had a light moustache cut off square at the ends. He was about five feet seven. He had a straight nose of medium size. I did not notice his eyes particularly, but think they were blue. He had no collar on as he passed me. He looked at me with a sort of smile and muttered a vile remark. I said nothing. Just after he passed me he began to run. I heard a cry in 19, and saw a woman come down. She said to stop the man, and I started after him. When I got to the corner I could not see him. He had time to reach the block lane and turn the corner, but when we got there two policemen said they had not seen anybody. I think he must have turned down the court, or he would have been seen. I would know the man if I saw him again, and I could identify his photograph, as I had a close view."

"Cast Your Bread Upon the Waters."

Calgary plays its part in bringing the Canadian West before the world in its true colors, through General Butler and Eli Perkins. Many of our readers will remember that last autumn Mr. Carrigan the Partner in Boston of General B. F. Butler and a party of Boston and New York ladies, visited Calgary and spent a week here. The HERALD gave some particulars of their visit and views of the town and country at that time. The party went from here to San Francisco to settle up an estate matter there in which the ladies were interested to the tune of a couple of millions. Mr. Carrigan died suddenly while the party were on their return trip. The HERALD reporter appointed himself a plenipotentiary to keep the residue of the party, especially the great General posted on Canadian West matters, by sending them the "New West", "Fitzgerald's pamphlet" and the HERALD. While we know a gentleman in Calgary has had regular correspondence with these people by letter ever since their visit here. Then as to Eli Perkins and what he has done for us, is not the Calgary Institute entitled to a large share of credit for what Eli knows and can say truthfully about the the Canadian West. It was no bit of Irish blarney on Perkins part, when he said he had never addressed a more intelligent or appreciative audience than his Calgary hearers were. It was no fulsome flattery when, after having been out through the environs of Calgary and saw the scenery, the crops, the soil &c. He said, "It is matchless." He then caught the inspiration which led him afterwards to say, "The country will astonish the Americans and feed the world."

Scotch Crofters.

From the News-Advertiser we learn that Mr. Alex. Begg, (of Calgary) is still before the British Commons with his scheme for settling Scotch Crofters in British Columbia. The News-Advertiser says:—

"The House of Commons Colonization Committee will be unable to conclude its enquiry before the rising of Parliament. Therefore it has been decided merely to report the evidence and recommend the re-appointment of the committee next session. Mr. Alexander Begg explained his proposal to settle the Crofters in British Columbia, but no action is likely to be taken until the committee reports next year. It suggested that the Government welcomes this further shelving of the question."

Special Council Meeting.

(From Saturday's Daily.) A special meeting was held in the council chamber last evening at 8 o'clock, called by the mayor in compliance with a requisition signed by all the members of the council. The mayor and council and clerk were all present. The object of the meeting was to confer with the members of the re-organized fire brigade on several important matters with the view of increasing the efficiency of the brigade. The firemen felt that in order to secure efficiency there were certain privileges that they should be guaranteed. A number of the members of the brigade as it now stands were present at the meeting to state what they thought should be done. Amongst those present we noticed W. H. Cushing, Ed. Traves, James Smart, Eugene Watson, S. N. Jordan, E. R. Rogers, J. A. Lindsay, Alfred Maw, T. B. Braden and others whose names we do not remember. Mr. J. A. Lindsay read the report of a meeting of the brigade recently held, in which was set forth what they considered should be done by the council for the brigade, in the interest of protection against fire.

They wished first, to have the use of the hall chamber for brigade purposes except for such meetings as in the judgment of the mayor it would be in the interest of the town to hold in the hall, and that the council should hold its sittings somewhere else; second, that after any such public meeting had been held in the hall, it should at once be scrubbed out at the expense of the council; third, that the sleeping room in the fire hall be so increased as to accommodate ten firemen in addition to the engineer, fireman and driver; that the chief of the brigade nor any member of it shall be allowed to incur any expense that the municipality would have to pay for, without being authorized by the council; fifth, that the chief of the brigade be empowered to have full command in every way at all fires. They also asked that the council should bind themselves to purchase all such articles and appliances for the brigade as the chief might want, and the committee on fire, water and light might approve of.

A good deal of discussion took place between the Brigade and the Council on this matter, in which all the members of the Council took part, but which is too long to report, as we go to press early on Saturday; but the utmost harmony prevailed and all the propositions of the Brigade were agreed to without material alteration. The Fire Brigade are to prepare a new code of by-laws based on the resolutions submitted to the Council last night, which will be submitted to the Council and no doubt approved of. A resolution was carried authorizing the Executive and Finance Committee to move the council chamber furniture to the hall in the police station, where the council meetings will be held in future. The committee on Fire, Water and Light were authorized to proceed at once with making the necessary additional sleeping room in the fire hall, furnishing the rooms and building a stable for a team on the premises. The names of the re-organized brigade are a guarantee of stability and efficiency.

Oregon, it is reported, has a very poor fruit crop this year and will have to depend largely on California. The California crop is not over big, but it is said that the demands of the canners will be moderate this season thereby enabling California to supply Oregon.—British Columbia.

Wesley College.
We have been furnished by the Rev. J. J. Leach, Ph. B., with a calendar of "Wesley College," Winnipeg. This College was first incorporated in 1877. The charter was amended in 1886, and was affiliated with the University of Manitoba in October, 1888. A movement is now on foot to secure an eligible site and to erect thereon suitable buildings for carrying on the work of the different departments. In the meantime the lecture course is carried on in the classrooms of Grace Church, Winnipeg. In looking over the names of the College board we notice those of many of Manitoba's foremost men, lay, clerical and professional. The officers of the board and the executive have been well chosen and will certainly give strength and permanence to the institution. With the growing requirements of Manitoba for higher education, Wesley College certainly has a right future before it.

THE CITY FATHERS

Held and Important Meeting Last Night.
[From Wednesday's Daily.]

The regular meeting of the Town Council took place at the Council Chamber at 8 o'clock last evening. Present, Mayor Marsh, Councillors Murdoch, Grant and Orr. The number present barely formed a quorum.

The minutes of the last regular and one special meeting were read and adopted.

Several letters were read, one of which was from J. D. Ronald, of Brussels, Ont., offering without prejudice to settle his account of $396 for $300, if settled now, and to furnish a set of springs of a new kind, made of silver, for the engine, which he says will last twenty years.

A letter was read from Hayler Reed Indian Commissioner, in reference to the claim made by the town for the expenses of burying the squaw, Rosalie. The total cost of casket and funeral was $51.00. The Commissioner offered to pay $29.00, which is the usual cost of burying a pauper. The Council decided to accept the proposal, and a resolution was passed authorizing the payment of the whole account, and providing that when the $29 is received from the Commissioner, it be placed to the credit of the city treasurer.

A letter was read from A. A. Andrews, of Winnipeg, asking for information of an order for hose couplings, &c. Coun. Grant informed the council that the information had been sent recently.

A communication was read from P. McCarthy, president of the Water Works Co., saying that the company had received a letter from the Minister of the Interior informing the company that the government had the request for land on 16 for water works station under consideration. Mr. McCarthy wished the time for work to commence to be further extended. On motion of Orr and Grant it was extended 4 weeks.

The various livery stable and other accounts in connection with the reception of the Ontario farmers who came here on the three June excursions, were presented. The accounts amounted to $184.10 and there had been $35 in cash provided to the committee, leaving about $144 to pay. This was ordered by resolution to be paid to Charles Sparrow, treasurer of the reception committee. This sum, however, does not by any means represent the amount expended by the citizens in showing our Ontario friends round the country, many of them in town who own horses and carriages turned out to drive the people round and in other ways help on the good work. The newspapers published hundreds of extra copies, which they gave free to these folks for themselves and to send their friends. Scores of the visitors were entertained at private houses, so that the amount spent by Calgary in this matter did not fall short of $500.

A petition was received from Rev. A. W. F. Cooper and a large number of signers for a sidewalk on McIntyre Avenue between Osler and Drinkwater streets by the Church of the Redeemer and the new school house. This was referred. A small error in the amount to be refunded Mr. Braithwaite for improper assessment was corrected.

A letter and cheque for $18.50 was received from L. A. Hamilton, C.P.R. land commissioner, being to pay one-half of the expense incurred by the council last year in sending out some Icelandic agents to Red Deer country.

An account of J. W. Compton as caretaker of Elbow bridge for the first half of this year amounting to $30, and an account of James Fraser amounting to $5.00 for work on the streets were ordered to be paid. Several applications to buy the old street pumps not now used were referred to the Fire, Water and Light.

A resolution was carried authorizing the Chief of Police to enforce the cleaning up of the lanes and the removal of all illegal encroachments from the streets and alleys.

The committee on by-laws was authorized to use their discretion about getting more of the working by-laws printed.

In reference to the J. D. Ronald claim, the clerk was authorized to write for a detailed statement of the claim. About an acre of correspondence was brought down by the Mayor, but the desired statement could not be found. Coun. Grant thought the detailed account had never been received.

The chairman of public works was authorized to get some gravel put at the approaches to the Elbow bridge and to have an old well on the nuisance ground filled up.

A letter was received by the Mayor from P. A. Prince, of the Eau Claire Co., saying that on account of having been so busy with their log drive, he had not been able to get his proposition re electric lighting ready, and asked till the next regular meeting of the Council to do so. The Council then adjourned.

The Queen has so far recovered from a severe attack of lumbago and sciatica, that she is now able to walk round without crutches.

Enormous Figures.
Life insurance in America was less than 50 years ago, and for fifteen years little was done. Finally, state governments became interested, and state insurance departments were formed. To these all companies must report, and the figures of their reports are amazing. The business of life insurance today stands at the head of all financial institutions in the country, rivaling that of the United States Government. Thirty years ago, in 1858, the entire business of the country was represented by 42,502 policies covering $116,462,000 of insurance, with $4,250,000 of income and $17,500,000 of assets, and the surplus at that time was $2,750,000. In the next ten years war devastated the land. But in 1868 there was 548,280 policies, covering $1,566,000,000 of insurance, on which there was an income of $77,250,000, and the assets were $175,500,000, with a surplus of $25,750,000. In 1878 there were 597,289 policies, covering $1,444,000,000 of insurance, with an income of $78,250,000, and assets of $396,000,000, on which the surplus was $41,500,000.

The last eleven years has been a season of unmeasured prosperity. At the beginning of 1889 there were in force 1,250,000 policies, covering $3,173,000,000 of insurance, and assets of $662,000,000. The new business written in 1888 amounted to over $2,723,000 for every secular day in the year, the aggregate amount being $817,000,000. There was paid to policyholders during the year $76,240,000. The forty-one life insurance companies of the United States during their existence had received as premiums $1,703,000,000, and had paid to policyholders $1,195,000,000, yet they have on hand assets to the amount of $663,000,000.

Many men doubt whether they insure their lives, they will leave to their family a legacy or a lawsuit. The records show that during the last five years only eighty-three policies have been contested out of 43,212. There has been paid without contest $125,000,000 in that time. Only 18-100ths of 1 per cent. have been contested.—W. P. Gannett.

The New York Life Insurance Company which is one of three giants of the world, is represented in Calgary by Geo. C. Marsh, office in the Alberta Hotel. The policies issued by this company are the most liberal in existence today.

HIS PINK CHEEK GIRL.

A Calgary Young Man's Soliloquy on His Lady Love.

To be or not to be, that is the question: Shall I dispense with trifles, go over hill, over dale, swift as a shadow, the observed of all observers, and tell to sweet Jane Page a deep story of a deeper love?

Yes! love give me strength, and strength shall help afford, true nobility is exempt from fear, delays have dangerous ends. I will away. There is a tide in the affairs of men which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune. Yet, list, O, list.

I am distilled almost to jelly with the act of fear; my two eyes like stars, start from their spheres; my locks stand on end like quills upon the fretful porcupine, for the apparel oft proclaims the man; and O, my prophetic soul! my uncle! thou hast my auld cloak in thy possession—and, being holiday, the beggar's shop is shut—O, mischief, thou art swift to enter in the thoughts of desperate men!

Alack a-day, the course of true love never did run smooth, but courage and comfort (like cold porridge), all shall yet go well; they say love is blind, sweet Jane Page will not know my breeches cost but a crown and are thrice turned, rich, not gaudy; an old hat, too, with "the humor of forty fancies" pricked in it.

O, horrible! most horrible! my uncle, what a falling off is there. I'd rather be set quick in the earth and bowled to death with turnips than—but comparisons are odious, 'tis pride that pulls the country down, and to have the quotidian of love upon you, your bonnet should be unbandied, your sleeve unbuttoned, your shoe untied, and everything about you denoting a careless desolation.

O, sweet Jane Page! this is the very ecstasy of love; 'twas told me thou hadst no more sense than a stewed prune, I find report a very liar. O, slanderous world! if I do not love her, I am a Jew.

To be or not to be, that is the question: whether 'tis better to bear those ill we have, or fly to others that we know not of.

O, sweet Jane Page! thou has gold—glittering, precious gold. I will confess thy father's wealth was the first motive that I wooed thee. Words are no deeds, I will away. Rude am I in speech, and I am as ugly as a bear, but give the devil his due, faith I can cut paper like a man of steel, and honesty coupled to beauty is to have honey a sauce to sugar. Hanging and wiving goes by destiny.

O, sweet Jane Page! how I love thee, how I dote on thee! I will haste to thee with wings as swift as inspiration on the thoughts of love, and stick my nose in thy neck under the head, both sitting on one cushion on the bank where the wild thyme blows. O, would I were a glove upon that hand, that I might touch that cherry nose beautified by plastering art.

O, that our fathers would applaud our loves, to seal our happiness with their comments. The time is out of joint, I must away to the fair, the chaute, the inexpressive she.

PRATT RILEY.

A Canadian in War Paint.

Mr. Chambers, editor of the HERALD, who is on a trip to the east for the benefit of his health, is at present spending a few days with his brother, editor of the Quebec Morning Chronicle. Mr. Chambers reports his health as much better and expects to return to Calgary in a couple of weeks. While in the east he put in the usual annual drill with his old regiment the 6th Fusiliers, Montreal's crack English red coat regiment, of which he is senior Lieutenant. At the annual inspection of the regiment on the historic Champ de Mars he commanded his old company "F." Upon this occasion the Fusiliers won through the new bayonet exercise and attack drill for the first time in Canada winning great praise from the Deputy Adjutant General. At the request of Lieutenant Colonel Mattice, Brigade Major of the Mounted Division, Lieutenant Chambers was attached to the 60th Miskiwic Regiment as Adjutant, during the camp of the Eastern Townships Militia at St. John's Quo. The 60th is one of the most celebrated corps of the Canadian militia service. It was the regiment which in 1870 defeated General O'Neil's Fenian Army of 2,000 men immediately after crossing the Vermont frontier, and in honor of this achievement the regiment bears by Royal Assent on its colors the inscription "Eccles Hill," with the significant motto "Guard the border; guard well." The St. John's News states that upon the occasion of a drill demonstration by the brigade in the direction of the American frontier the command of the right wing of the advanced or packet line was entrusted to Lieutenant Chambers.

Mr. Chambers writes a friend in Calgary that upon the occasion of the visit of Sir A. P. Caron and Sir Fred Middleton to St. John's to inspect the camp, he took the opportunity of urging that the necessary authority should be given to organize a militia corps in Calgary. The Minister of Militia said he realized the advantage there would be in having militia corps established in the Northwest, while the General said that he would use all the influence he could to assist in establishing a mounted infantry corps at Calgary.

What Mr. Van Horne Says.

Speaking of the success of the Northwest and the feeling of the residents toward the C.P.R., President Van Horne says:—

"I was gratified more than I can say at the kindly sentiments I have heard expressed wherever I went towards the Canadian Pacific. The hostile feeling of the past two or three years, which was created, I need not say how, seems to have almost entirely disappeared, and every one seems to have reached an appreciation of the fact that the Canadian Pacific is the only railway that has a genuine interest in the development and success of the Canadian North-West, and I do not think that this belief will be easily shaken again by that cheap talk of politicians.

"The Canadian Pacific, within the last three or four years, has had to pass through a most difficult and most dangerous stage of its financial existence. It has had to overcome the distrust which was created by its enemies at home and abroad in its abilities to sustain itself. Doubt as to the success of the North-West was the real foundation of this distrust as to the future of the company, for it was apparent to everybody that the North-West was the body and soul of the enterprise. Happily all doubts as to the country have disappeared. The ability of the company to take care of itself has been conclusively demonstrated, and its credit abroad is rapidly improving—so rapidly that the directors are confident that they will have no difficulty in securing the necessary means for carrying on within the limits of prudence such extensions and improvements as the fullest development of the country may require. It seems to me certain that the North-West is entering upon a period of great prosperity, and I fully believe that within a year the movement towards the North-West will come with a rush like that towards Kansas in 1870, and that such scenes as that at the Winnipeg station on Friday, when four or five heavy passenger trains arrived from the east in quick succession, will be an everyday occurrence."

THE WEEK'S LOCAL NEWS

Thursday.

Frank White, manager of the Merino Ranch Co., is stopping at the Royal.

W. E. Cochrane, of Mosquito Creek, is in town and putting up at the Royal.

Mr. Hugh Patton, manager of the Shedden Railway Cartage Co., of Montreal and Mrs. Patton, are registered at the Royal Hotel.

Mr. W. H. Sharman of Tennessee who arrived in Calgary the day before yesterday, went west to see the Canadian Rockies this fore noon.

Saturday.

The meeting of the Town Council and Fire Brigade last night was most harmonious, and citizens as well as underwriters may rest assured that nothing will be left undone within the limits of reason to make property secure against fire.

The Moosemin Courier, of the 25th inst., speaks very hopefully of the crops in that district. It says some good samples of the growing wheat from various farms has been brought to the Courier office, which promises a good yield. Late rains have done much good.

Notwithstanding the feeling of horror which took hold of the people here when the death of the squaw, Rosalie, was made public, when Fisk got his sentence and was taken away to Stony Mountain for fourteen years, Thursday morning, there was a general feeling of regret that a young man of such good family and previous good character should so soon in life be consigned to a felon's solitude.

Monday.

Work on the new race course in the agricultural grounds is being pushed forward with great vigor. From 10 to 12 twelve teams and from 15 to 20 men are constantly employed. The contractors express confidence that they will have the work through by the specified time, which we believe is the 15th of August.

A gentleman of rather dubious manner says that when he was passing an hotel on Sunday afternoon a pall of water was maliciously dashed from an upstairs window upon him, very much to the discomfort of his new white hat, silk velvet coat, white satin vest and Russia deck lower garments. The party feels so indignant about it, that he will no doubt report it to the New York "Police Gazette."

Tuesday.

J. D. McMillan of the Pavilion Hotel Banff, is in town, a guest at the Palace Hotel.

The lawn social at the residence of Mrs. R. A. James on Thursday evening, is in aid of the new church building fund. Ladies and gentlemen will be expected to arrive at 7:30 to 8 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Watson, are again called on to mourn the death of one of their little children. The surviving one of their twin girls died about 6 o'clock on Saturday evening, the 27th. The funeral took place from the family residence Angus Avenue on Sunday afternoon to the Calgary Cemetery. There was a large turn out of citizens at the funeral. The little girl was very delicate, and seemed to pine away ever since its little sister died on the 7th inst.

The Cautious Clerk.

"I'm from Medicine Hat," said the new arrival, as he walked up to the register at the Palace Hotel.

"Hush, man!" said the clerk. "Put yourself down from Winnipeg. I'll keep your awful secret."

Where the Boom Is.

Judging from all accounts, crop prospects are so poor in Dakota that there won't be any food for man or beast this fall in many parts of the new State. On the other hand, everything is booming in Manitoba and the Northwest, and the man who said Dakota was the more productive of the two cannot be found.—Toronto News.

Still in the Ring.

A dirty trick was perpetrated some time last night on Mr. John Field, English Chymist, by daubing his show window over with little patches of paper. We are glad to be able to say that the little episode has not disturbed the equilibrium of the interior of the establishment. The public can get their prescriptions just the same as if nothing had happened.

The Wide and Wonderful West.

Speaking of the interesting features of a trip to the Northwest Territories, the Toronto Empire says:—"If the traveller should be a Canadian he will come back from his trip with a greater appreciation of his country and a feeling of pride that he is a citizen of such a Dominion."

Enough for a Century.

Mr. J. L. Mudge, manager of the Anthraxite coal mines, states that the output is steadily increasing, and it is expected that ere long the amount of coal turned out of the shafts daily will total up at least 1,000 tons. It is true that an English syndicate has bought an interest in the mine. Many of the seams are from 13 to 25 feet in width, and there is enough already located to last for probably 100 years.

Agricultural Prosperity.

The importance to which this region is attaining as an agricultural district is evident by the number of threshing machines in use among the farmers. Mr. Maw, agent for the Massey Manufacturing Co., sold another of these expensive machines to Messrs. Blatter & Walpert yesterday, and this makes the fifth in use in this district. These threshers cost about $1,000 each, so that the number employed testifies to the growing prosperity and increasing necessities of this fertile agricultural country.

Slapping is Expensive.

[From Wednesday's Daily.]

At the Police Court yesterday afternoon, George Murdoch, J. P., presiding, the proprietor of the Montreal House was charged with assault on one of the witnesses who had testified in the case of French Charley, before his lordship, Judge Rouleau. The party pleaded guilty and being the first time he was up before the police Magistrate, he was let off easy, his fine and costs amounting to $28.

At Riverside Track.

[From Wednesday's Daily.]

A one mile hurdle race took place on the Riverside Track yesterday afternoon, between T. Lynch's "Jimmy" and Morgan's "Chinook." Morgan bet his horse against $100. Four hurdles only were allowed. Both horses made a very bad showing, and were pretty well fagged out when the race was ended. Jimmy came in about twenty yards ahead, and Chinook was handed over to Lynch, who carefully led him away. Quite a number witnessed the contest.

Unusually High.

[From Thursday's Daily.]

At midnight the mercury was 70 above zero. This is probably the highest it has been at midnight this season. Alberta is noted for cool nights, so much so that as a usual thing crops do not grow much at night here, but this season is an exception. The result is that the crops are fast catching up the time lost through the thyness of the early opening.

Manitoba Wheat.

Mr. G. Fawns sold last week to Gould Bros., Uxbridge, between three and four hundred bushels of Manitoba hard wheat, grown on his farm in Scott, for $1.10 per bushel, at his barn. The seed from which he grew this wheat was a portion of a car lot sent to Messrs. Gould Bros. early last year. Mr. Fawns intends going to Manitoba soon and will ship a car of good seed wheat to this town next fall. The Manitoba wheat makes excellent seed for this Province.—Uxbridge Journal.

Sold to Dan Mann.

Mr. I. M. Ross, the railway contractor, has sold his interest in a ranch north of Fort Macleod to Mr. D. D. Mann, the railway magnate, for $20,000. The money was paid Saturday. Mr. Mann had an interest in the ranch before, but his last purchase makes him supreme, as he now owns five-eighths of the stock. The property is said to be a very valuable one. Mr. Mann will go west shortly to look after it.—Winnipeg Sun.

Should Come West.

The Prince of Wales is suffering from gout in his eyes and legs. When the Prince was a boy and was out in the Wild West he tried his hand at buffalo hunting. If the heir to the throne of Britain would come out to Alberta and try cow boy life, say with Mr. Gordon Cumming, son of the African lion hunter, on his ranch near Calgary, we can guarantee a perfect cure of his gout, and there would be no dispute between Sir Morel Mackenzie and the German doctors about who did the curing.

He Couldn't Sleep.

A guest at one of our leading hotels who wished to sleep on Sunday morning, was very much exasperated by the howls of a baby in the next room. After toying about the bed for some time in a vain effort to shut out the infantile yells, he at last grew desperate, and going to the door exclaimed: "Aw, I say, madam; would you oblige me by tossing the screaming urchin out the window?"

"And, baw jove, Chawley," he afterwards confided to a friend, "damme if she'd do it, aw."

The R. and L. L. Railway.

The Saskatchewan Herald says:—"We can assure the people of Prince Albert that the Regina and Long Lake Railway is a settled fact. It will not be built into Prince Albert this year, but it will be graded up to Saskatoon, and there is strong probability that grading will be done between that point and this. The only difficulty in the way of laying rails is that ties cannot be procured. It is almost certain that ties for sixty miles of the road will be taken out here this winter."

Value of Trees.

Hon. H. G. Joly, of Quebec is an authority on forestry. In a recent article he advised the people of the Northwest as follows: "Plant rows of trees which grow fast, ash leaved maple, cotton wood, poplar, willow, etc. These will protect the fields from the hot summer winds and the cold winter blast; they will help to retain the moisture by preventing evaporation, and the too rapid melting of the snow in spring; near these rows and protected by them trees less rapid in growth can then be planted, more valuable species can be selected, such as walnut, oak, maple ash, cherry, etc."

Society Event at Pine Creek.

A ripple of excitement was occasioned among the good people of Pine Creek on Thursday, over the wedding of one of the town's fairest young ladies, Miss Jessie Grierson, to Mr. J. Stevenson, of McPherson's Coulee. The happy event took place at the residence of the bride's father, the subsequent festivities being appropriate and enjoyable. The Herald extends its best wishes to the young couple for a long life of happiness and prosperity.

Change of Management.

A change has been effected in the management of the Palace Hotel by which Mr. R. J. Ogburn retires, leaving Mr. Ingram and Mrs. Clark in full possession of the business. The new firm will be known as Ingram & Clark, and the hotel will be under the personal management and superintendence of Mr. J. E. Ingram, who has already won so much esteem as a genial and courteous landlord. The restaurant department will remain under the control of Mrs. Clark, who has such a wide and favorable reputation for superior cookery. It is safe to predict that the new firm will do all in their power to promote the comfort and convenience of guests and patrons, and that the popular Palace will always maintain its present high standard of excellence.

The Crops.

We had the pleasure of meeting several of the best farmers living within ten miles of Calgary, yesterday, amongst whom were John Paterson, Samuel Ray, Hugh Munroe, A. C. Sparrow, Mr. Carney and others. In reply to our questions about the crops, the replies were most satisfactory. Though these gentlemen were interviewed separately, their statements as to the growing crops were almost uniform. They say that the growth has been marvelous during the last two or three weeks, in fact that there are many fields that if visited a week before, the same person visiting them now would not recognize it to be the same place.

The Field Smelter.

Mr. P. McCarthy, of this town and Mr. Fowler, of Chicago, went up this morning to Field to arrange for the immediate erection of the necessary buildings at the mine for the smelting of the ore, and the dwellings, &c. for the employees. The machinery which Mr. McCarthy and Mr. Alexander purchased in Chicago a short time ago, is on the way now and as soon as it arrives will be put in position. No time will be lost in getting the works into operation. Mr. Fowler will be the practi-

An Old Timer Gone.

Mr. Archibald McNeil, one of Calgary's oldest settlers died at Vancouver at nine o'clock on Saturday evening. Mr. McNeil, who was a builder and contractor, was engaged with the C.P.R. at Port Arthur all last winter. About the 1st of May he went to Vancouver where, we believe, he had a contract for the same company. Nothing was known to be the matter so far as his family here knew till this morning, when a message was received from Mr. Soules announcing his death. On enquiry it was found that a telegram had lain here since Saturday night from Angus Shaw at Vancouver to Pat McNeil here, but by mistake addressed to Pat McConnell. Up to the time of going to press we have been unable to learn any particulars of Mr. McNeil's death. Mr. McNeil and his family are too well known and respected in Calgary to need mention. He came here from Stayner, Ont., before the railway reached Calgary and has been a successful business man. He was at the time of his death a member in good standing of the masonic, Oddfellows and Loyal Orange Societies. The Masonic brethren at Vancouver telegraphed P. W. M. Murdoch, Calgary for instructions which were at once forwarded for the Masonic brethren to take charge of the remains and have them shipped to Calgary. We hope to be able to give more particulars about this ad event tomorrow.

An Ex-Calgary Editor Dead.

[From Monday's Daily.]

We have to record to-day the death of a former Calgary journalist, Mr. Charles Frederick Ewer, who was for nearly a year, editor of the Calgary Herald. Mr. Ewer was born at the town of Strathroy, in the county of Middlesex, province of Ontario, in the year 1861, and was consequently twenty-eight years of age when he died. His death took place at Redlands, California, on the 16th of July, 1889. He leaves a wife and two small children to mourn the loss of husband and father. Mr. W. H. Ewer, father of the deceased, resides at Union Valley, Manitoba, but his mother died some years ago. The subject of our notice has been a newspaper man all his life. Previous to coming to Calgary, he was engaged on the "Free Press," Winnipeg. His health being poor, he thought the milder air of Calgary might be a benefit to him, he accordingly took a position on the Calgary Herald, and to all appearance he was better and felt better, his physicians however, advised him to go to southern California, which he did do in December, 1887. In California he followed his profession, he gained strength and flesh and had strong hopes of final recovery; but that dread disease, pulmonary consumption, had taken firm hold of his constitution, and he had at last to yield to its unrelenting grasp. Mr. Ewer made many friends in our town during the year of his residence here. All whom we have mentioned his death to, express feelings of deep regret at the untimely demise of so genial and clever a man.

French Charley Convicted.

[From Wednesday's Daily.]

Before Judge Rouleau in the Supreme Court yesterday the interesting case against the notorious "French Charley," or Charles Boiteau, for stealing $100 from Mr. S. Cunningham, a visitor from Edmonton, at the Montreal House, on the night of June 30th, came up for hearing and lasted all day. A number of witnesses were examined, and the most important one for the prosecution incurred the displeasure of the proprietor of the Montreal House, by giving very damaging evidence against the prisoner. The landlord threatened to slap the witness' ears when he got him out of court, and it is reported that he lost no time in putting his threat into execution with such vigor as to make the young fellow's head ring for a time. This is a queer country where a man is punished for telling the truth and punished if he don't. It was proven that French Charley was a person of questionable honor, by the exhibition of a contrivance found in the sleeve of his coat for the manipulation of a "cold deck" in a game of draw, and in other ways it was brought out that he was peculiar to "ways that are dark and tricks that are vain." His Honor considered that French Charley was guilty of stealing the money from Cunningham, and sentenced him to six months imprisonment in the barracks. As soon as the Judge pronounced the sentence, the prisoner ground his teeth, and shaking his fist at His Honor, called him a name more forcible than choice. The even-tempered Justice very kindly overlooked the obscene outburst, otherwise French Charley might, instead of six months, have been sent up for a few years for contempt of court.
